Natelson advocates redirecting funds

Tom Potterf
of the Kaimin

UM Law Professor Robert Natelson is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination with an eye on a university funding system which puts more economic clout in the hands of students, he said Sunday.

Under the Montana university system restructuring plan, which is entering its second phase this year, the state's colleges were consolidated under the two universities, UM and Montana State University-Bozeman.

Natelson said the restructuring process has done little to improve the quality of higher education.

"When the Racicot administration took office they really headed off in the wrong direction," Natelson said, "... in the direction of consolidating units, creating more of a top-down system, and in some cases, created a new layer of bureaucracy."

The result, Natelson said, is that the universities still move to the beat of the administrations' drum, rather than the students' and faculty's.

Rather than having funds begin at the state Board of Regents and filter down to the students, Natelson said he advocates giving state money directly to the students. All Montana students should receive a $4,000 or $5,000 scholarship which could be used at any public, private or tribal college in the state, he said.

And then, he said, higher education providers would have to compete for students' business.

"We don't know what the university system would look like if the consumers were really in the saddle," Natelson said. "My guess is that it would be more decentralized than now. My guess is that you would find less bricks-and-mortar construction and more outreach to areas of the state that don't have university units."

According to a regents resolution this summer, phase two of the university system restructuring process leads in the direction that Natelson is advocating, with an emphasis on campuses competing with each other for programs.

"Phase two talks more in terms of competition," Natelson said. "If another campus wants to set up a business school or a law school to compete with one in existence, apparently that's going to be OK."

But the similarity with Natelson's plan ends there, he said.

"Competing for contracts with the state would be a step forward," he said, "but it would not be as big a step forward as competing for students."

If Natelson wins the June 4, 1996, primary, he said he would take a leave of absence from UM's law school to concentrate on the race for the state's highest office.

Watchdog questions Fort buy-back deal

Matt Ochsenr
of the Kaimin

Less than a week after UM reached an agreement with Divot Developers to buy back 83 acres of Fort Missoula land, Missoula watchdog Ross Best has asked the state Land Board to take another look at the deal.

In a petition given to a district judge on Thursday, Best asked the court to force the Land Board to re-evaluate the agreement and to decide if the Board of Regents should have power to OK the verbal deal hammered out between UM and Divot last week.

Last Monday the Land Board voted 3-2 to put a possible lawsuit against UM on hold and to let the deal go before the regents for approval this weekend. In the agreement, UM agreed to buy back 83 acres of Fort Missoula land from Divot for $790,000 — almost $340,000 more than UM got for the land when it sold it in 1994. The UM Foundation also agreed to give 215 acres of Fort property back to UM. Both agreements came a week after Attorney General Joe Mazurek warned UM that it had until Sept. 18 to buy back the land or face a state lawsuit.

George Schunk, the associate attorney general, said Monday his office hasn't reviewed Best's petition yet and didn't wish to comment.

Best couldn't be reached for comment.

Thursday's petition follows a string of complaints Best has had through the years with the handling of the Fort land issue. About three years ago, Best helped form the petition drive for an election that shot down Divot's plans to build homes on the property. His inquiries last month also sparked the attorney general's report that said UM's 1994 sale of land to Divot was invalid.

District Court Judge Douglas Harkin will now handle the case and can decide if the Board of Regents has the right to approve the agreement.

KYSS blimp gets goodbye kiss

Sonja Lee
of the Kaimin

Saturday football games will no longer be graced by the presence of the KYSS FM "Hot Country 95" blimp floating high above the stadium. But the public will have the chance to pay their last respects to the blimp that got away.

Tom Anthony, KYSS morning personality, is making arrangements for a viewing of the balloon's remnants. He is hoping to hold the service in Caras Park on Friday.

"I thought that the blimp was really something, and I wanted to do something that the public could be involved in," Anthony said of the white aircraft with red call letters. "I would like to put it on display, so the public can take a last look at it before we put her down."

Anthony also said he is planning to ask the city for permission to bury the balloon in Caras Park, where his pet lizard has a final resting spot.

Mark Ward, KYSS general manager, said the balloon, which was about three weeks old, meant a great deal to Anthony.

"Have you ever had a dog die?" Ward asked. "Tom cared a lot about that balloon."

Paul Proctor, another KYSS personality, agrees that the loss of the balloon was unfortunate. However, he isn't so sure about a viewing of the balloon's remnants.

The exact time and location of the balloon's viewing will be announced later in the week, Anthony said.

The saga of the runaway blimp began Saturday afternoon when the hot-air balloon escaped from its handlers at the River Bowl and headed for bluer skies.

Ward thought the balloon was headed to Boise, but it made it only as far west as Spurgin Road.

The balloon landed at the residence of Jerry and Carol Lemieux. Jennifer, their daughter, was looking out the window Saturday night when she saw something peculiar resting across their hot tub.

After a closer examination, Lemieux discovered it was the runaway hot-air balloon KYSS was hunting. She called up the radio station and laid claim to the $95 prize for any information about the balloon.

Because the balloon floated too high into the atmosphere, it exploded and was "blown to smithereens," Proctor said. Ward agreed the balloon has seen its last days at Washington-Grizzly Stadium.

Replacing the balloon would cost around $2,500, and KYSS has not yet decided if they will purchase a replacement.

Griz defy skeptics, prove they can do it

Playoffs are a long time away, but a crushing victory over Boise State, 54-28, Homecoming weekend, was a well-timed event and will prove critical for the 1995 UM Grizzly football team.

With the loss of some key players to graduation last spring, the most notable being defensive extraordinaire Dan Downs, Kurt Schilling and Jay Turner, along with offensive tackle Scott Gragg, questions surrounded the Grizzlies' ability to live up to last year's successes.

Kaimin editorial

"The offensive line won't hold," I heard some say, while others put the defense under the microscope and ripped away. "They've lost too many players to be able to replace that kind of caliber; thank God for Dickinson 'cuz our offense will have to score like crazy to make up for the points allowed by the defense."

Granted, it's early in the season, but a win, and a convincing one, over the third-ranked team in Div. I-AA, can do wonders for a youthful team who knew full well going into the weekend's game that Boise had ripped UM a new one last year in Bronco Stadium, 38-14, knocking the Griz from the number one helm on which they were sitting so comfortably.

Boise State, one of this year's conference powers and pre-season favorites, returned a truckload of players from their team, which made it all the way to the Div. I-AA championship game last year before falling to Youngstown State.

Besides that statistic, what made this an even more important game was more than a crucial conference clash, but that UM Head Coach Don Read said Boise State was an even better team than last year's and called the match-up the biggest one to ever be played in Washington-Grizzly Stadium.

That big of a hoopla for a conference-opening game? The win, as it turned out for the Grizzlies, proves many things to this young team coming of age.

For starters, the 1995 Grizzlies are ready for the competition. There will be little, if any, growing up to do. The skepticism about their ability to perform should slow and they can get on with winning.

Secondly, the team has already emerged from the shadows of last season's success story, something very important for a young team to do—create their own identity and winning way.

And finally, they can go into this season knowing they have already accomplished one of the top goals of the year—avenged the BSU beating UM suffered last year and set Montana up for a run at the conference championship and the national crown.

President vows to fight education cuts

(U-WIRE) This is a busy time for you. But while you are choosing classes and making the decisions that will help you build a good life for yourself, the Congressional majority is working to make drastic cuts in education—in your student loans, in national service and even in your scholarships. And the cuts will jeopardize the future you and your generation are working toward.

I want you to know that I oppose these cuts. I will do everything in my power to fight them and to see to it that the dream of higher education remains real for all Americans. I will do this not only by defending the opportunities of those of you who are already in college, but by opening the doors further to make sure that even greater numbers of deserving Americans have the chance to stand where you stand today.

For the first time in a long time, leaders from both parties are resolved that we must balance the federal budget. From the day I took office, I've been committed to this goal—to getting rid of the budget deficit that quadrupled our national debt in the 12 years before I came to Washington. So far, we have made great progress. In three years, we have cut the deficit nearly in half, from $290 billion to $160 billion.

Now we are ready to eliminate the deficit entirely. On this, the Congressional majority and I see eye to eye.

But just how we get rid of the deficit is another matter. The majority in Congress wants to balance the budget in seven years, and do it while giving an unnecessarily large tax cut. But in order to do these things, the Congressional majority would make enormous cuts in education.

My balanced budget plan would take more years than Congress' to eliminate the deficit, but that's a small price to pay to keep your scholarships, your student loans and national service safe and well. It would also preserve our ability to protect the environment and the integrity of Medicare for our older citizens.

Balancing the budget is about more than numbers. It's about our values and our future. Education has always been the currency of the American Dream. When I was your age, it was assumed based on our long history—that each generation would have a better life than the preceding one. More than anything else, a good education is the way we pass this vision on to those who come after us.

The facts speak for themselves. Earnings for those with no post-secondary education have fallen substantially in the last 15 years. The only people for whom earnings have increased steadily are people exactly like you—those Americans with more education. Every year of higher education increases your earnings by six to 12 percent. Those years also mean a stronger overall economy and richer lives for those who have them.

Balancing the budget will be good for our economy and your future if it's done right. But simply balancing the budget won't do us much good in the long term if your generation does not have the education it needs to meet the challenges of the next century.

"The only people for whom earnings have increased steadily are people exactly like you—Americans with more education. Every year of higher education increases your earnings by six to 12 percent.

Just think over what the Congressional majority's plan, if it went through, would do to you, your classmates, and any of the one out of two college students who receives federal aid. It would:

- Raise the cost of student loans by $10 billion over seven years by charging you interest on your loan while you are in school. This would increase the cost of a college education by as much as $3,100 for undergraduates and $9,400 for graduate students.

- Deny up to 360,000 low-income students desperately needed Pell Grants in 1996.

- Shut down AmeriCorps, our national service initiative, which gives thousands of young people the chance to earn and save money for college while serving their country.

By contrast, my balanced budget plan builds on the national consensus that we must help people help themselves, through the power of education. It eliminates both of our deficits: our budget deficit and our education deficit. My plan cuts wasteful spending by more than $1 trillion, but it also increases investments in education by $40 billion over the next seven years.

Think over how my balanced budget plan would help guarantee your future and all the hard work you're about to put into it. It will:

- Increase funding for Pell Grants by $3.4 billion. Almost one million more students would benefit from the scholarships. And we would raise the top award to $3,128 by the year 2002.

- Expand AmeriCorps to let even more young Americans serve their communities and go to college.

- Protect our direct-lending program, which makes student loans more affordable, with more repayment options, and saves taxpayers, parents, and students billions of dollars.

I just returned from Pearl Harbor, where I took part in ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War. In the late 1940s, when the veterans we honored left their loved ones to go off and serve their country, they were the age most of you are now.

When they came home, the country recognized their service and their potential, and it responded with the G.I. Bill, which guaranteed a college education to every returning veteran. Those who served were given a handout, and they didn't want one. They were given the opportunity they needed to take responsibility for their lives.

Your generation has its own battles to wage. You face the choice of doing something right and difficult—or something easy and wrong.

In taking on the responsibility of educating yourselves, you have chosen the right and difficult path. Do it the work you had to do to get into college. You may be working now to pay your way. And your family may have worked long hours and made great sacrifices to help you get where you are today.

You deserve the nation's support. And your future success will likely repay our common investment. I do not accept the arguments of those who condemn irresponsibility in young Americans and then seek to deny the nation's helping hand to the millions of you who are doing the right things.

I hope you'll support my efforts to protect education and balance the budget. The fight for education is the fight for your future. In my life—and in the lives of countless Americans—education has meant the difference between the impossible and the possible. It should be true in your lives, too. With your help, we'll keep it that way.

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS! Fall Semester Groups are Now Forming! FALL SEMESTER 1995

ACOA/CO-DEPENDENCY GROUP: Led by Joanne Blake, MS CGC. Wondering why you are not happy or feeling good about yourself? Perhaps it's because of all the old baggage you brought with you from your family of origin. Forge a new relationship with yourself as you learn to make better choices that enhance your self-worth and increase your happiness. Day and times to be announced.

A WOMAN'S GROUP - LIVING IN THE PRESENT...ENVISIONING THE FUTURE. Led by Carmen Lousen, MA LPC & Martha Silverman, PhD. This is a woman's process oriented group which will be shaped by the contributions of its members. We will address family dynamics and identify with goals of deepening self awareness and engendering healthful change. Tuesday, times to be determined.

LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUP: Led by Cheryl R. VanDenburg, PhD. This support group is designed to explore the issues of homophobia, enmeshment in relationship, family dynamics, the lesbian community, coming out, parenting and integrating sexual orientation with school/career. Tuesdays, 4:10-5:30 p.m.

BEREAVEMENT GROUP: Led by Mike Frost MA LPC & Kerry Maier, Counselor Education Graduate Student. Come for support and comfort as we deal with issues of death and dying. Tuesdays, 1:10-2:30 p.m.

COPING WITH ANGER: Led by Fred Weldon, EdD LPC. An action oriented group with concrete activities designed to create change and give you more control over the emotion of anger. The group will help you find the cause of your anger and offer solutions using proper and effective communication. Mondays 3-4:30 p.m.

KNOCK OUT NICOTINE: Led by Fred Weldon, EdD LPC. It's never too late to kick the habit. Nicotine impairs your quality of life and can cause shortness of breath, less energy and more colds. Smoking, chewing or dipping can lead to cancer, cause gum disease, mouth sores, cost you a bundle and ruin your looks. A six session program based on the American Lung Association model. Cost per person: $15 Mondays 3-4:30 p.m. beginning October 30th.

A CHALLENGE FOR MEN: Led by Michael Frost LPC. An opportunity for men to come together to discuss specific issues that affect men today (or issues that men affect today). Wednesday 2-3:30 p.m.

SKILLS FOR OPTIMIZING YOUR LIFE THROUGH THE MIND-BODY CONNECTION: Led by Will Cowdrey, LPC & Quincy-Robyn Young MA, Clinical Psychology Graduate Student. This series of workshops will introduce you to techniques to allow you to achieve your personal goals, more fully relax, cope and manage your stress, improve your sleep, reduce anxiety, and improve your overall health and immune system. You must sign up each week, but are encouraged to attend the whole series, as the skills build from week to week. Thursdays 3-4:30 p.m., beginning September 28th.

FOOD, FRIEND or FOE? Led by Cheryl VanDenburg, PhD, & Linda Schrader, MA Clinical Psychology Graduate Student. This group will provide a supportive environment for people who struggle with their relationship with food and body image. The group will explore emotional vs. physical hunger, dieting, overeating, bingeing, purging, and self care. Thursdays 3:10-4:30 p.m.

FEELING GOOD: Led by Michael Frost MA LPC & Quincy-Robyn Young MA, Clinical Psychology Graduate Student. If you wake up dreading the day...or have trouble getting out of bed...if you have to force yourself to anything...if you believe you're worthless...if you find yourself losing interests, and not getting out much...you will benefit from this group, which teaches ways to respond to our moods, deal with emotional problems, and get rid of depression. Fridays, 1-2:30 p.m.

A WOMEN'S GROUP: Led by Betty Miller RN C. What do you want from your deepest heart? Obstacles and options. Day and time to be announced.

SUPPORT GROUP FOR GAY MEN WHO ARE UM STUDENTS: Led by Will Cowdrey, LPC. Here's an opportunity to explore your concerns about sexuality, relationships and relationship support, family and parenting issues, coming out, self acceptance, homophobia and internal oppression, and self identity. Gain meaningful support with others sharing similar issues in a safe, confidential and caring environment. Tuesdays, 2-3:30 p.m.

SUPPORT GROUP FOR ADULT MEN RECOVERING FROM CHILDHOOD SEXUAL ABUSE: Led by Will Cowdrey, LPC. This group will provide an opportunity for adult men to explore a wide-range of issues associated with their childhood sexual abuse experiences, including affected belief systems and behaviors, sexuality, relationships and ways of moving from surviving to thriving. Wednesdays, 2-3:30 p.m.

SEXUAL ABUSE GROUP: Led by Carmen Lousen, LPC & Betty Miller RN C. A women's group where adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse can find support and comfort as they confront the pains of the past and experience healing. Monday evenings.

Four new ASUM senators sworn in

Erica Cureless
of the Kaimin

ASUM swore in four new senators Monday morning.

Sens. Tom Donnelly, Jeremy Hueth, Michael Mathern and Jeff Merrick were sworn in by Dean of Students Barbara Hollmann after receiving Senate approval.

Donnelly, a Penn State transfer student, applied for a Senate position to bring life experience and basic values to ASUM, he said.

"Fees are a sensitive issue here," Donnelly said. "Let the people know what they are for so they can take advantage of it."

Hueth is bringing financial knowledge to the Senate, he said. He was a senator last year and made an unsuccessful bid for business manager last spring.

"I felt my experience could help the Senate a lot," he said. "Especially when it comes to budgeting and working with groups. More people familiar with fiscal policy can get out there and help the groups."

Mathern spent 15 years in law enforcement and was deputy sheriff in Lake County. He also served three terms on the Ronan City Council.

"I want to provide an open door or ear to listen to people if they have a problem," he said.

Sen. Jeff Merrick wants to help the Senate distribute ASUM money fairly, he said.

"My main objective is to see where our funds are going in certain committees and organizations," Merrick said. "If they're not being used properly for students and the university we should think about dispersing them to organizations that need them and would use them properly."

Sens. Trinity Baillie, Dixie Dishon and Paula Halford resigned two weeks ago either for financial reasons or conflicting class schedules.

Sen. Kim Skornogowski resigned last week to fill the Student Political Action co-director position. Law student Ben Reed accepted the other SPA co-director seat.

John Zimmerling, a former senator representing the College of Technology, was appointed as student resolution officer. He is now a UM junior.

The student resolution officer is an advocate for students having academic confrontations with faculty and staff, Zimmerling said.

Wednesday's ASUM business meeting is canceled because the executives are attending a conference in Bozeman.

Homecoming game brings fans back year after year

Matt Ochsner
of the Kaimin

From the young to the young-at-heart, Homecoming weekend at UM has become something special to the Griz loyal.

"I still get shivers every time I see the opening kickoff at a Homecoming game," UM alumni Jack Wyler said Saturday following the Grizzlies' 54-28 win over Boise State. "There's something magical about Homecoming you just don't see at any other game. It seems to bring out the best in a school."

At 69, Wyler has made the journey from his home in Billings to Missoula each of the past 17 years to root for the Grizzlies and take part in the Homecoming weekend. This year was Wyler's 22nd Homecoming game, and he guarantees it won't be his last.

"I'm a Montana Grizzly through and through," he said Saturday. "I wouldn't miss Homecoming for the world. If the Lord lets me, I'll be coming back here for 22 more."

While Wyler has become a fixture at Washington-Grizzly Stadium, 18-year-old Sammy Roth, a UM freshman, watched his first Homecoming game Saturday.

"I've never been to a Homecoming game before, but I could see how much this means to the school and the team," he said. "People were into it so much. I was just proud to be there and be a part of it."

Wyler and Roth were among the 18,000 people who turned out for Saturday's game, marking the largest crowd ever at Washington-Grizzly Stadium and one of the biggest turnouts at a Montana sporting event.

UM CHEERLEADERS got airborne coming down Higgins Ave. as part of the Homecoming parade Saturday morning.

Homecoming king Rob Erickson and queen April Ennis were honored at half-time.

"The atmosphere was tremendous," Roth said. "I've never seen people get behind anything so much. This is what being a Grizzly is all about."

Wyler said that some 40 years after he graduated he's thrilled to see the same loyalty in UM today that he knew as a student.

"I can tell the spirit is still there," he said. "Each year that I come back I'm reminded of how much the school has to offer. UM has something to be proud of."

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

RECENTLY, MORNINGSTAR CALLED US CHEAP. IT'S NOT EVERY DAY YOU GET A COMPLIMENT LIKE THAT.

All financial companies charge operating fees and expenses — some more than others. Of course, the lower the expenses you pay, the better. That way more of your money goes where it should — towards building a comfortable future.

We make low expenses a high priority.

Because of our size and our exclusive focus on serving the needs of educational and research communities, TIAA-CREF's costs are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual funds industries.<sup>1</sup>

In fact, Morningstar, Inc. — one of the nation's leading sources of variable annuity and mutual fund information — says, "Size isn't a constraint; it... enables CREF to realize a remarkable economy of scale."<sup>2</sup> According to Morningstar's data, CREF's "minuscule" 0.51% average fund expense charge was less than half that charged by comparable funds.<sup>3</sup>

TIAA's traditional annuity also charges no fees

aside from a very modest operating expense of 1/4 of 1% of annuity assets. Interest and dividends are reported after all operating costs have been deducted. Standard & Poor's calls TIAA's costs "exceptionally low."<sup>4</sup>

Of course, expenses are only one factor to consider when you make an investment decision. While we're committed to keeping our expenses down, we spare nothing in trying to provide top-quality investment choices, financial expertise, and personal service. Because that can make a difference in the long run, too.

TIAA-CREF seeks performance, not profit.

At TIAA-CREF, we believe people would like to spend more on retirement, not on their retirement company. If you'd like to see how our approach can help keep more of your money working for you, call us at 1 800 842-2776 (8 a.m. to 11 p.m. ET, weekdays). We'd consider it a compliment.

Griz show Boise who's boss this year in 54-28 romp

Thomas Mullen
of the Kaimin

On the stat sheet, the game looked average for Montana.

The Grizzlies racked up 54 points for the second week in a row and that Dickenson guy set a couple more records, and ... wait a second. Wasn't this supposed to be the game against that team from Idaho? Wasn't that game supposed to be close?

Yes, it was.

Instead, UM's defense put the cuffs on one of the strongest offenses in the Big Sky, while Montana's own offense showcased their talent. The Grizzlies sentenced the Boise State Broncos to a 54-28 lashing in front of 18,505 fans, the largest crowd ever to attend a football game in Montana.

UM Head Coach Don Read even went so far as to call the win the "biggest."

"I think I could honestly say, for our program, this was our biggest win," said Read. "We needed to grow a bunch today to beat these guys and we did."

And it wasn't even as close as the score indicates. Instead of fighting his way through a sea of battle with highly-touted Boise quarterback Tony Hilde, Dave Dickenson threw for a school-record six touchdowns, five of them in the first half. Among his touchdown passes was a 90-yard strike to Matt Wells, which broke the school record of 87 yards.

But despite Dickenson's record-setting frenzy, the most comforting fact about the Grizzlies' play Saturday was in the emergence of a wall-like defense that held Boise in check even after the starters were resting. Led by Yohanse Manzanarez, Jason Crebo, Mike Bouchee and David Sirmon, UM's defense kept Boise trapped inside a 10-yard radius for much of the first half, until an unnecessary roughness call gave the Broncos their initial first down of the game well into the second quarter.

Three different Boise quarterbacks faced a Montana defense that issued seven sacks as well as three pass deflections and several hurries.

"Defensively, that was by far our best effort," Read said. "I can't recall when we've had a better one or as good of one."

With BSU's rushing attack gaining one yard during the first half, the Broncos relied heavily on the pass, which was also shut down by a stifling Montana secondary. During BSU's second offensive drive, cornerback Mike Temple stayed step-for-step with Boise's leading receiver, Ryan Ikebe, and knocked down two consecutive deep passes to set the defensive tone for the rest of the game. Boise's starting quarterback Tony Hilde went 0-9 passing before leaving the game midway through the second quarter with a head injury.

Offensively, Read said the Grizzlies' success was due in large part to Dickenson's decision-making as well as technical adjustments that were lying in wait for the Broncos.

"We had certain things we thought would be good against Boise," Read said. "We kept sneaking them into the plans starting last spring, knowing that Boise was on the horizon."

Read's sneak attack was composed of stacked receiver

Bruce Ely/Kaimin

formations and no less than 11 different screen plays, creating an offensive monster meant to counter Boise's blitzing defense.

Boise State head coach Pokey Allen said the Broncos' defense didn't disrupt Dickenson enough.

"You've got to get to (Dickenson), you can't give him a lot of time," Allen said. "But the problem is they ... screened us to death. You take heavy risks, you get heavy penalties."

In their opening drive, the Grizzlies didn't need a single huddle before Joe Douglass took the second screen of the three-play drive through a gaping middle en route to a 20-yard touchdown reception.

The next two scoring drives were even simpler.

After Ryan Thompson jumped on a fumble caused by Bouchee and Sirmon on the Boise 15, Douglass reached out and grabbed his second touchdown pass of the game from Dickenson, which was followed on UM's next offensive play with the 90-yarder to Wells.

Dickenson was sacked five times by the Bronco defense, but compared with the 11 times Boise got to him last year, Dickenson said he'd take the sacks any day.

"If they're going to blitz, you're going to get sacked,"

Dickenson said. "But you make some big plays and that's the trade-off."

Dickenson finished his day 26-38 for 383 yards. Douglass finished with 12 catches — two shy of Mike Trevathan's record of 14.

With Boise departing for the Div. I-A Big West Conference next year, this could be the last time the Broncos will be hosted by the less-than-accommodating Grizzlies, a situation that suits Allen just fine.

"We're not scheduling Montana up here again," Allen said. "I'll be back here to be at Flathead Lake, but I don't ever want to come back here to play."

•Off to a 0-2 start in Big Sky Conference play, the Lady Griz volleyball team lost Saturday afternoon to one of the league favorites, Weber State. UM (0-2-6-8) lost in three games, 15-13, 15-10, 15-9. The Lady Griz are home this week with their only game, hosting MSU Thursday night.

•The women's rodeo team look the team title in the first rodeo in Miles City last weekend and tied for first in the second rodeo. Individually, UM's Erlonna Mikkelsen placed second in the overall for the first rodeo and Rachel Myllymaki took second in the second rodeo. The men's team did not place in either rodeo.

Weekend bombs, bee burglars

•The reveling kicked off in the early morning hours Friday, when officers were called to the Oval to remove a parking barricade that had been placed on the grizzly's head.

•Officers are buzzing to track down thieves who broke into the Division of Biological Sciences' beehives near Prescott House. The incident was reported Sunday morning. Apparently, no one was sighted tampering with the honeycomb, and workers noted the missing honey when checking on the hives, said Sgt. Dick Thurman of Campus Security. Campus Security added patrols to the hive area, and officers are looking for sticky-fingered suspects.

•Campus Security is considering a potential suspect in Saturday's "bombing" at Turner Hall. Just after midnight a blast rang through the hall, bursting the window of the Residence Life director's office. Thurman dismissed allegations of a pipe bomb damaging Turner Hall but said the remains of the unidentified explosive have been sent to the Montana State Crime Lab for analysis. The explosion broke a window in Ron Brunell's office, but no estimate has been placed on the damage.

Thurman could not say if the vandalism targeted Brunell's office or if the office was hit accidentally.

•The UC Bookstore was sprayed with mace Friday afternoon. The person who reported the incident asked for "no action" from officers but noted that doors to the store had to be opened to air it out.

•Thursday evening a caller reported that the ceiling on the third floor of the Pharmacy/Psychology building was "going to fall down." Thurman said carpenters have been called in for repair. His best estimate of the problem is that moisture has caused the ceiling panels on that floor to sag.

•A smoke bomb is being blamed for setting off the Aber Hall fire alarm just after midnight Monday. The smell of sulfur on the third floor led investigators to the smoke bomb.
